

ABSTRACT

Temperature sensitive MRI measurements are used to monitor the effect of radio signals including the NMR signals themselves. In one embodiment, a closed loop MRI system maximizes acquisition speed without exceeding safety thresholds of tissue temperature by monitoring the tissue temperature using NMR signals in real-time.